Brand New Book. Excerpt from Louisiana Conservationist, Vol. 2: March, 1959 Many species of commercial fish, especially members of the sucker family, are notorious for their ability to rapidly over-populate a body of water. In areas of high concentration they muddy the water and root up the bottom like a herd of hogs. Some members of this family are also guilty of eating the eggs or destroying the nests of game fish. Anyone who helps control these fish is doing the sports fisherman a great service. In addition the commercial fishermen remove many gar from the waters of our state. They are sold if the market is favorable; or killed as required by law. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
